NOTES ON ADAIR COUNTY.

BY JOHN AVROE STEELE.

(The writing of these notes was suggested by the writings of Judge H. C. Baker, lately published in the Adair County News, and are intended as a supplement to his writings, and will be continued in future numbers of The News, if found to be of interest.)

ADAIR COUNTY, AS A POLITICAL DIVISION OF THE STATE.
 No. 4.

On December 9, 1803, the following portion of the then county of Adair, was, by an act of the legislature, cut off from Adair, and added to the county of Wayne: "Beginning at the mouth of Wolfe Creek, and thence up the same to the line of Pulaski county; thence south with the line of Pulaski, to the Cumberland river, and thence with the river to the beginning."

On December 16, 1805, an act of the General Assembly became a law, which corrected and established the line between Cumberland and Adair counties, in the following words: "Beginning at the mouth of Black Fish Creek, on Cumberland river, and thence a due north course to the old line between said counties; thence with the said old line westwardly to the line of Barren county."

On November 14, 1806, the county of Casey, was formed out of the western portion of Lincoln county, and in the statute creating it, its territory is, thus, described: "Beginning on the Lincoln and Pulaski line, where, by running at right angles from it, will just include in the new county, Joseph Dismukes, on the head of Indian Creek; thence a direct line to the mouth of Pine Lick Creek; thence to the great suck on Carpenter's Creek, leaving Joseph McCormick's in the old county; thence a direct line to the great road west of Carpenter's Station, leaving George Carpenter in the old county; thence along the foot of the Knobs, with the said road, to where the county line crosses the same; and with the county line between Mercer, Washington, etc., around to the beginning."

It will be observed, that the description of the boundaries of the various counties, given above, are very slovenly and carelessly made. Many of the objects mentioned as descriptive of the boundaries, were probably, at the time, the acts were drawn, places of note and known to the people of that time, which are entirely unknown to the present generation. After the formation of Casey county, in the year, 1806, the boundaries of Adair county appear to have been as follows: Beginning on the south bank of Green river, at a point, which is ten miles up the river from the Green court house, at Greensburg; thence a straight line westwardly, to a point one quarter of a mile due north of the then residence of Col. Daniel Trabue. This corner of the county is, now, at a point in the western room of the dwelling of Wm. Farris, at which place Green, Taylor and Adair counties have a common corner; thence westwardly with the line of Green county to the then Barren county line, as heretofore described; thence a line passing about one mile east of Edmon-ton, to the waters of Moccasin Creek, and to the then Cumberland county line, at a point upon the ridge, which divides the waters of the Cumberland from those of the Green; thence with the ridge to the road, which leads from Columbia to Burksville, a short distance beyond the present dwelling house of John Wisdom, and about seventeen miles from Columbia; thence in an eastern direction and crossing Crocus, just north of the present John Bledsoe residence, near the mouth of Sand Lick; thence in the same direction, to where the present line between Adair and Russell intersects it; thence up the Cumberland to where Wolfe Creek empties into it; thence up Wolfe Creek, to where the Pulaski county line then crossed it; thence with the line of Pulaski, to the present line of Casey county; thence with the Casey line a course N. 45 degrees West to Green river, at the old Jefferson county corner; thence crossing Green river, and with the line of Casey county, which was, formerly, the line between Lincoln and Jefferson, and Lincoln and Nelson, and Lincoln and Green, to the ridge, which divides the waters of Casey's Creek from those of the Rolling Fork of Salt river; thence to the head of the ridge between Casey's Creek and Robinson's Creek; thence with said ridge, to Green river; and thence with it to the beginning.

The above territory embraced a large portion of Russell county, and about one-third or more of Metcalfe county. Such remained the boundary of the county, until in the year, 1825, when the county of Russell was created out of the territory of Adair, Cumberland and Wayne. The boundary of Russell, as described in the legislative act which created it, was as follows: "Beginning on the Adair and Casey county line, one mile southwardly, from William Jones', horizontal measure; thence a straight line to the east end of Aaron William's (deceased) lane; thence to Zachariah Collins, leaving said Collins in the old county; thence to a point on Crocus Creek, one mile below James Duncan's run, so as to leave Henry Antle and Adam Miller in the old county; thence to a point on the Cumberland river, one mile above the Rock House, etc." The remainder of the boundary is not given, as the portion above, describes the line between Russell and Adair counties, except that the line between Russell and Adair counties, stops at its intersection with the old line between Adair and Cumberland, and does not extend to the Cumberland river. Caleb Kicketts, a surveyor of much distinction in Adair county, ran and marked the line.

Alsace, Germany.

I arrived at Brest, France, August 20th. I went from there to Rueil, France, where I was in a training camp. I was transferred to the 82nd Division Sept. 20th, and went on the firing line Oct. 3rd, on the Verdun front the Argonne forest sector, the worst blood shedding sector on the whole front so; the Dutch say. I sure witnessed things that would look untrue if I were to write them, but I will wait until I come home to publish them for our mail has to be censored and I want this to be sure to pass. I made some awful narrow escapes with one very slight wound from a piece of shrapnel. I was off the field only 3 days and didn't go to the hospital. I have been on the lines when it didn't look like any body would get by, but I believed I would get by if anyone else did, I sure think I am some lucky boy. I have heard more machine gun bullets whistle than you could pull on a freight train and have had dirt thrown all over you from bomb shells and believe me they sure would make you get low to the ground. Our division was on the front, lines 21 days. Then we were relieved for about 10 days. Then we went back to the front and were there when the armistice was signed. Our company was forming a skirmish line to go over the top when a sergeant came with the orders not to make any more attacks. We sure were a happy bunch of boys when we received the orders. We went back about 2 miles and stayed in a small town for a few days, then started our march to the Rhine, which we finished Dec. 11th. Well, this will do for the hike. We have about 4 inches of snow. This is our second snow but the other one did not amount to anything. So I will close hoping to be home to make a crop, especially a crop of tobacco.
